

David Hollenbach

High-Performance Leadership In High-Stress Environments

When stress is high, leaders are put to the test. Learn the keys to leading through stressful situations with captivating professional speaker, David Hollenbach.

Hollenbachleadership.com

About David Hollenbach:

- Battalion Chief David Hollenbach (retired) is a sought-after leadership consultant helping organizations and leaders achieve more and perform at their full potential.
- 23-year career in the fire service serving as Company Officer/Lieutenant, Battalion Chief in Operations, Chief of Special Operations, Critical Incident Stress Management (CISM), Peer Counselor, and Public Safety Rescue Diver
- Coordinator and developer of his department's first leadership development program
- International best-selling author of "Business, Life and Universe Volume 6" and "Fireproof: Your Grand Strategy for Transforming Failure into Fuel for Your Future."
- Professional speaker, member of the National Speakers Association, and John Maxwell certified speaker
- DISC Method Trainer
- Podcast Host of "From Embers to Excellence."
- Veteran of the United States Navy with a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Barry University.

Speaking Topics

The Keys to Effective Leadership in High-Stress Environments

The simple tools I teach aren't just for managing stress during large-scale emergencies, combat zones, or natural disasters-they apply in personal and professional settings, including the boardroom and managing personal stressors.

This talk provides

- Quickly implemented actions (tools) that can bring anyone back to a place of calm and control.
- The neuroscience of stress and why these tools work.
- Examples of why these tools are utilized by military special operators and public safety professionals.

David Hollenbach

High-Performance Leadership In High-Stress Environments

Self-Leadership And The Power Of Grace

Leaders that achieve great success tend to be more comfortable making decisions that others shy away from but judge themselves harshly when they make mistakes. Providing ourselves with grace is one of the best tools for achieving more.

This talk provides

- Personal stories and research that illustrates the importance of grace for high-performing leaders
- How to extract lessons from the decisions we made that didn't work out as planned
- Examples and tools to help leaders learn to provide themselves with grace.

Advocacy for Women in Male-Dominated Organizations

There is a correlation between ineffective leadership and a culture that does not embrace the contributions of women to the same degree as men. Sadly, gender-exclusive culture is pervasive in many industries and organizations.

This talk provides

- The different components of Emotional Intelligence and how they impact gender-exclusive cultures
- Leadership research that confirms a correlation between ineffective leadership and a culture that does not embrace the contributions of women to the same degree as men.
- The importance of men taking on the roles of mentors and advocates for women and how to do it skillfully.

To book David Hollenbach as a speaker:

1. Please book a brief, 30-minute discovery meeting using the booking link below.
2. We'll discuss your organization, event and audience.
3. Enjoy an engaging presentation that teaches audience members the tools they need to lead through high-stress situations.

BOOK NOW